To whom it may concern,

This letter is in support of the Dementia Training that is conducted by Guiding Lights. We have been using Guiding Lights dementia training program from the time when Guiding Lights has opened their doors. We have trained close to 60 of our employees and continue to send at least 3 or 4 employees to this training every month. Trainings are very thorough and easy to comprehend by professionals as well as the family caregivers. The curriculum is designed to be presented to professional caregivers, family caregivers and the office employees and we always hear the positive feedback from all of the trainees. The trainings are interactive; they include role playing and games which makes it a lot more personable than any other trainings I know. The cost of the training is also very reasonable and affordable for professional organizations and family caregivers. We'd like to see this program grow and will be happy to support it in any way we can.
